THE dedication of this book appears on another page.. This annual presentation not only honors one individual, but is a tribute to the entire student body. It is as a charge to us who are honored in this way, to serve our University to the best of our ability. Let us, therefore, accept this charge and by our best efforts strive to preserve its lofty ideals and democratic spirit, disseminate its influence, and increase its usefulness through-out all future generations.

TO THE COACH

Who by his untiring efforts and concentrated energy has advanced the athletic life of our Alma Mater beyond that of any period in its history.

Who by his influential example has awakened the student body to a greater desire for sportsmanship that is always clean in which the spirit of fight-to-win is fused with the ability to accept defeat, when it comes with generosity and manliness.

Who by fostering the spirit of fair play through the influence of an admirable personality is producing the truest loyalty to our ideal of a Greater Washington.

To
GEORGE L. RIDER,
Director of Athletics, is this Twentieth Anniversary number of
respectfully dedicated.

ALMA MATER

Dear Alma Mater
Thy name is sweet to me
Our hearts are all for thee
Fair Washington
Thy halls shall honored be
Throughout this great country
For all eternity
Our Washington

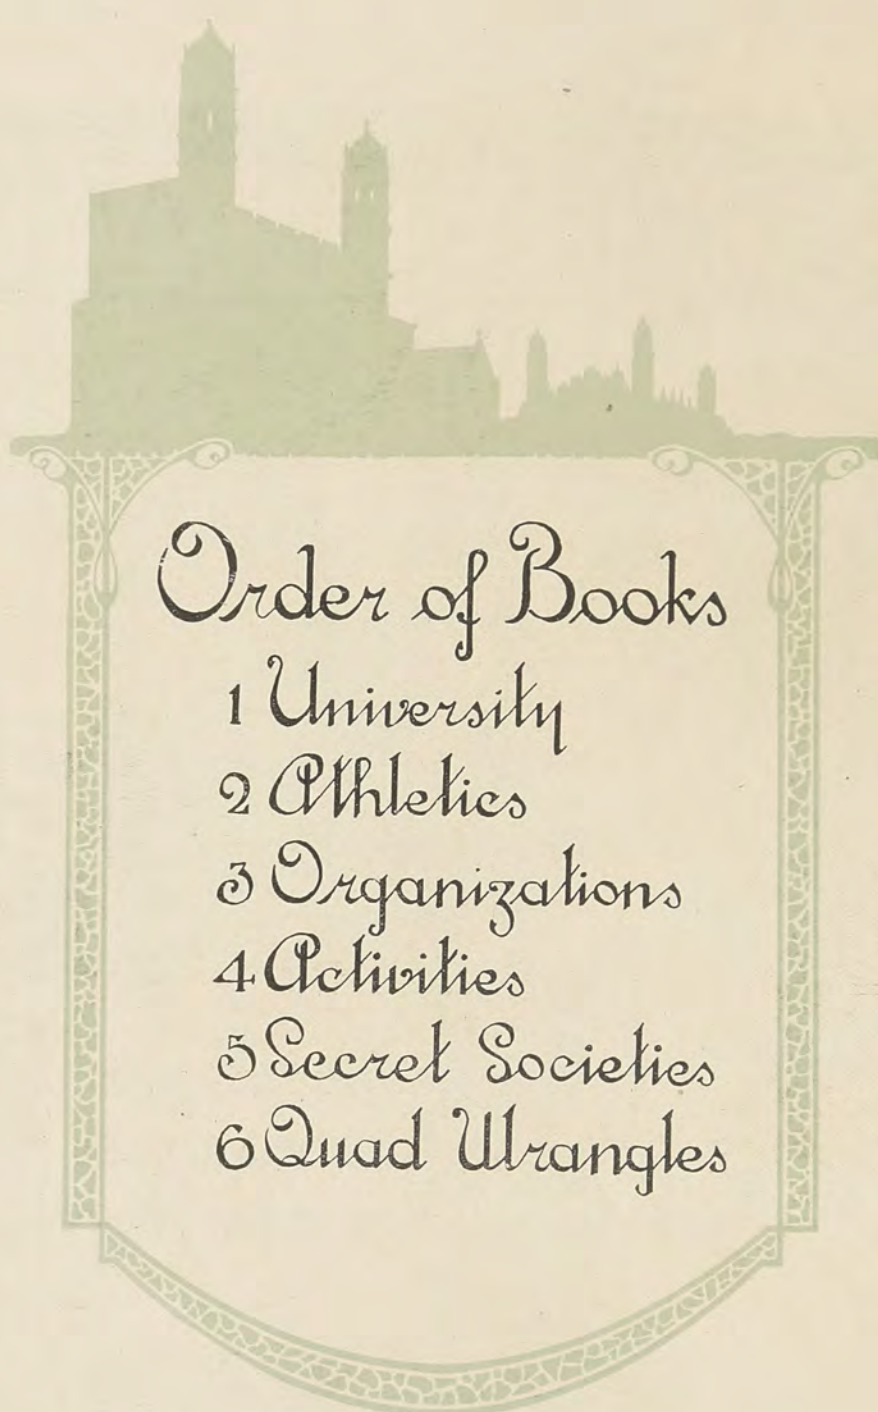

Those days of youth which
All of us spent with thee
Form a dear history
Fair Washington
Could they renewed be
We'd live our days with thee
For all eternity
Our Washington

THE 1921 football season started early in September, when Coach Rider issued a call for all candidates for the Varsity team to report two weeks before school opened. Nine of last year's veterans were on hand to start this early training, and several promising men from the class of '24 reported. The linemen were Captain Kraehe, Shanley, Denny, Hafner and Kurrus, with Thumser, Matthes and the Thompson brothers forming a nucleus for the backfield. Long, Young, Cantwell, Claypool and Dougdale loomed up as Varsity material. Ed Singleton, an All-Valley guard from 1920 machine, did not report, but Schnaus, a new comer in Piker football, looked like a sure find at end. It was with this material, and with perhaps fifteen more men with some football experience, that the coach undertook to mould a formidable eleven to represent the Red and Green.

All followers of Pikeaway athletics know the merits of George L. Rider. It is with a feeling of confidence that the teams are intrusted to him. All know that he will do his best. His winning personality commands the respect of all his men, and he leads them on, rather than drives them, to victory or defeat.

The Varsity line was coached by C. O. Applegran, former All-Western guard, who directed football activities at Allegheny College, Pennsylvania, last season. Applegran gained his football experience at Illinois where he played in 1914, 1915 and 1919.

In 1919 Applegran was chosen for the All-Western and All-American teams by Walter Eckersall and given honorable mention for the All-American by Walter Camp.

Applegran will coach Varsity basketball and Freshman baseball.

his coming to Washington, Davis served as athletic mentor at Kansas Wesleyan College for two years. He is an All-Western man, having been chosen as half-back by Walter Eckersall while attending the University of Iowa in 1917.

The baseball team will be under the tutelage of Davis this year, Davis having played three years while at Iowa. He will also act as Freshman basketball coach.

The Pikers successfully opened a hard schedule on October 1, with a 10 to 0 win over Rolla School of Mines. For three quarters the miners presented a formidable front and battled furiously. In the fourth quarter, the Pikers found themselves, and a drop kick by Tommy Thompson and a touchdown by Young, followed by Schnaus' subsequent goal, accounted for the Red and Green's points.

The second game of the season was with the strong Kansas Aggie team on October 8, at Manhattan. A forward passing jubilee between both teams resulted in a 21 to 0 victory for the Kansans. The Pikers displayed aggressive flashes at times, but were unable to gain consistently, and when their goal was threatened, the defense cracked. The final score is apt to prove misleading as the game was hard fought, especially in the initial quarter when the Pikers rushed the ball to the shadow of the Aggie goal posts. Kraehe and Schnaus stood in the limelight, by reason of their deadly tackling and all round playing.

After a week's thorough drilling in all departments of the game, but with special emphasis laid on defensive tactics, Coach Rider had completely ironed out the rough spots, and the team was in fine shape for the Grinnell game.

The 14 to 13 victory indicates a tight game, and the winning point hung on the subsequent goal kicking of Schnaus. By the end of the first quarter, line plunges by Young, Matthes, and Thumser worked the ball up to Grinnell's 7-yard line. Then with 2 yards to go for first down and 7 yards for a score, Tommy Thompson pulled the unexpected by heaving a short pass to Thumser, who scored. Schnaus added another point and the score stood 7 to 0. In the second quarter, Grinnell scored on a recovered fumble, and the kick after goal tied the score. The Iowans then began a series of rushes, which Washington seemed unable to stop, and the first half ended with Grinnell on the long end of a 13 to 7 score. The failure to kick goal after the second touchdown, proved fatal to Grinnell.

Coming back in the second half, Washington preceded to manhandle the visitors. With just a little more punch they would have made it a one-side victory. In the early minutes of the third quarter, Long recovered a fumble on Grinnell's 5-yard line and a fine catch by Young of a 20-yard pass made the score 13 to 13. Schnaus delivered with the extra point, which proved to be the winning marker, as neither team was able to do any further scoring.

On October 22, Washington journeyed to Norman, Oklahoma, for a battle with the Sooners, 1920 Missouri Valley Champions. Oklahoma was again considered a contender for titular honors, and according to advance information was a top heavy favorite over the Pikers. In the first three quarters, Oklahoma ran up 28 points while Washington was unable to score. The fourth quarter witnessed a new spirit arising in the breasts of the Pike-way warriors. Apparently hopelessly defeated, the Pikers stiffened, held, and threw the Sooners back, and in turn uncovered a remarkable forward passing game, which resulted in two touch downs. The team had found itself, and was playing the surprised Sooners off their feet, when the final whistle blew, and Oklahoma had won 28 to 14.

The Ames Cyclones, with "Polly" Wallace and Company invaded the Pike-way on October 29. The ensuing game was truly a remarkable exhibition of football prowess. Both teams played infallible football for two quarters; it seemed as if the teams were on an exact par and as though the game might end in a scoreless tie. In the third quarter, however, the superiority of the Pike line started to assert itself, and the fast Washington linesmen began charging through the Ames line, tearing open wide gaps, and forcing the Cyclones, when they had the pigskin, to hurry their plays. Toward the middle of the third quarter, Ames had possession of the ball on their own 7-yard line, and Gaylord their full back was forced to drop back behind his goal line in order to kick the ball out of dangerous territory. As the ball was snapped into play, the onrush of the Pike line carried all opposition before them, and the punter was downed before he could make the kick. This safety scored for Washington, the only two points of the game, as there was no further scoring. The Pikers presented a well balanced team that worked with precision and in absolute harmony. With the exception of Lee Shanley, the team seemed to be in good condition for the Missouri game.

On October 5, in one of the hardest, but most cleanly fought contests ever played on Francis Field, the Missouri Tigers were again successful in nosing out the Pikers with a single touch-down. Whereas Missouri had journeyed to St. Louis a heavy favorite over Washington, and all expert critics had predicted a comparatively easy victory for SEASON with one victory cannot be called successful. In fact it might well be termed disastrous. But overlooking the final standing, and with but merely glancing at percentages, let us stop and realize that it was a comparatively inexperienced team which represented the Red and Green. Let us also remember that the Pikers fought hard in every contest, and accepted defeat only after giving their best. Figures and results show that five games were lost by four points or less, two by one point, and several required extra five minute periods. Although the team was a loser, it can be said "that it went down fighting."

The beginning of season found the Varsity squad working under a new coach. It was C. O. Applegran who issued the call for basketball, which was answered by about fifteen men and including three veterans, Captain Thompson, Thumser and Leffler. The squad worked faithfully and after trying several combinations, the Coach decided upon Thompson and Thumser at the forward positions, Cristol at center, and Leffler and Schnaus, guards. Berry, DeBolt, Fox, Linnemeyer, McMahan and Thym constituted the reserve strength.

The first four games were played away from home and proved fatal. Nebraska opened the season by handing the Varsity a defeat and two days later at Columbia, Missouri repeated. Thompson was the star for his team on this trip, and his ability to net free throws was especially marked.

The next week end found the Pikers in Kansas, where two more defeats were chalked up. In the first game the Aggies exhibited an impenetrable defense, and allowed the boys but five field goals. Thompson's steadiness in shooting fouls kept his team in the running until the last five minutes of the game, when the Aggies drew away. Kansas U. was too much, completely outclassing the Varsity, and was superior in all departments of the game.

Washington's first game at home proved to be an extra five minute period affair which Grinnell won by one point. A foul, called on the crowd, had tied the score, and in the extra period, Grinnell scored the winning marker on another free throw.

At the beginning of the second semester, Leffler and Thym were declared ineligible, but the small squad was increased with the reporting of Cantwell, Johnson, and O'Brien. With this new material available, Thumser was shifted to guard, Johnson taking his forward position, and the team took a fresh start.

Oklahoma found the Pikers a very much improved team, but won by a margin of three points, Cristol and Thumser playing excellent basketball for the team. The next evening the Pikers displayed a burst of speed against the Kansas Aggies, which resulted in their only victory of the season. "Baldy" Thumser's excellent all round playing was the feature of the game. This was the one time in which the entire team hit its stride and kept it throughout the game.

The Red and Green suffered two more reverses in its eight and ninth games. Ames, by means of one of the prettiest and most effective short passing systems seen at Francis Gym this year, was able to break through a strong defense for just enough points to win. Drake also found tougher competition than they had anticipated from a tail end team, and were successful in nosing out the Pikers only after an extra period of play. Cristol was high point man for Washington, caging seven field goals.

The undefeated Missouri Tigers now left their lair and journeyed to St. Louis for a "set up" game. However the Black and Gold waved triumphant only after a tense struggle. Three days later, Washington traveled to Oklahoma and lost a hard one by three points. On its way back from the Spooner state, the Varsity, minus the services of three regulars, stopped off at Rolla and remained there long enough to lose a pair of games. Central Wesleyan of Warrenton was also visited by the second string men, but the result of the game is a secret.

Next came Kansas U, contender for the Valley championship, and displaying a brand of basketball that was unbeatable. Two days later Nebraska suc-

THE 1921 baseball season was not all that was hoped for, especially by those who picked the 1920 Champs to repeat, but in view of the many frowns of fortune, it must be termed highly successful. The team won eleven out of fifteen games, and three of the four defeats were by the margin of one run.

Only once did the Pikers look bad, and that when Ames trounced them to the tune of 11 to 1. As it was, the Pikers finished third in the Valley race, and DeBolt and Magualo were selected for the mythical All-Valley nine.

Contrary to the 1920 outfit who were weak hitters but beautiful fielders, the 1921 Pikers proved to be terrible swatters and very erratic fielders. The pitching was just as effective as that of last season and in only one game did the slabbers falter, but very loose support especially around third and short kicked off two games and kept the hurlers in constant hot water. To counteract this loose exhibition in the field, the team came across with some very solid hitting as the averages will attest. Hurd, Burke, Shanley, Berger, Schewe, Wyman and T. Thompson all clouted over .300, with the first named three over hitting as the averages will attest. Hurd, Burke, Shanley, Berger, Schewe, Wyman and T. Thompson all clouted over .300, with the first named three over .350.

Before the season opened, the team was dealt a hard blow in the loss, through ineligibility, of Bob Edgar, stellar shortstop who had been depended upon to round out what would have been a fast and skillful infield. Likewise the team lost the services of pitcher Bill Fries, seasoned lefthander, and found itself for a time with only Captain Lyon to do the hurling. Luckily Frank DeBolt and Lou Trautwein, would be shortstop and first baseman respectively, were converted to mound duty, and developed into excellent hill artists before the season closed. To cap the bad luck, Elmer Schewe, the surest and most brilliant fielding second sacker in the Missouri Valley, was injured after the second Ames game, and did not again break into the lineup until the last game of the season. The break in morale caused by the absence of "Shay" had a great deal to do with the erratic play in midseason.

The Pikers opened the Valley Conference season with an 8 to 7 victory over Drake, in a loosely played game at Francis Field. Monty Lyon pitched good ball all the way, but his support faltered in the ninth inning, when the Bulldogs chased over a cluster of four runs, and were only one run away from knotting the count, when Lyon fanned Allen for the final out. Linnemeyer inaugurated the festivities with a terrific clout for the circuit, and excellent hitting by Shanley, Wyman and Thompson chased over seven more runs. The Bulldogs got their second dose of defeat next day via a hitless shutout. The unusual coldness and wet grounds did not seem to bother the combined efforts of DeBolt, Trautwein and Scurlock, who hurled three innings apiece, while on the other hand the home swatters mauled the shivering Niggemeyer for nine runs in the first two frames. The last seven icy frames were a mere formality.

Hard hitting, reinforced by eleven errors by the opposition, enabled the Red and Green to completely annihilate the James Milliken University outfit. The score was 20 to 1, the visitors registering their lone tally in the eighth inning, after Captain Lyon had sent them down in order for seven innings without a hit or run. While "Monty" was toying around with the enemy, his mates were making all the runs they could for him; some by virtue of hard and opportune slugging, and others through the clemency of the Milliken fielders who handed the Pikers tallies whenever the occasion arose. In only one inning did the Pikers fail to score; and Linnemeyer, Schewe, Shanley and Lyon dented the rubber three times apiece. Berger took the clouting honors with a four base swat to the Gymnasium.

Tiger luck beat Frank DeBolt at Columbia after thirteen innings of superb pitching by the Piker star in as tense and interesting game of ball as could be played. The Pikers got off to a lead in the second inning, when Tommy Thompson gave the pill a three base knock, immediately after Wyman had been hit by a pitched ball. They added another in the fifth, when Berger, on a double steal, beat the throw home. Everything was lovely until the eighth, when Frank lost control momentarily, and this combined with several hits and a high throw gave the Tigers a one run advantage. The Pikers, nothing daunted, despite the airtight pitching of Smith who had relieved Pruitt, proceeded to tie the score in the final frame on hits by Magualo and Tommy Thompson. Lyon, who was subbing for Shanley on first, opened the tenth with a harsh wallop to left center, but was nipped sliding to third, on a perfect throw from Lowrance. More Tiger luck helped in the twelfth, when with two on and one out, Wyman's scorching liner went straight to Lam, and resulted in a double play. The final smite from the Goddess of Luck won for the Gold and Black, when Fulbright's smack to left, lit in a mud puddle and skidded far to Tommy Thompson's right, Simpson scoring on the play. It was a wonderful game. Aside from the work of the pitchers, the playing of Tommy Thompson stood

Captain, a very effective moundsman, a handy first-sacker, and the noisiest coacher in captivity, "Monty" was handicapped by a broken finger suffered just before the Varsity season opened, but despite this fact he won six out of seven starts. His loss will be keenly felt.

LEO SHANLEY, First Base

The Captain-elect hit for an average of .357, besides upholding his brilliant fielding reputation. Lee should make an excellent leader, and has the entire confidence of every man on the team.

HUGH WYMAN, Shortstop

When a run was needed, with Hugh up, it was but a formality to put it in the book. He could be depended upon to produce a hit. It was his first season as an infielder, and next year should find him an able successor to Schewe.

ELMER SCHEWE, Second Base.

When "Shay" hurt his shoulder and the team lost his services for eight games, all championship hopes were conceded lost for 1921. Elmer can be well proud of his fielding exhibition for the past two seasons—one error out of over one hundred chances is an enviable record. Besides he hit for a .320 average, and was some classy squeeze play artist. Schewe's graduation leaves an infield gap which will be hard to plug.

RAY LINNEMEYER, Third Base

"Linny", clown and dashing third sacker, had a tough assignment in filling Zoeller's vacant place, but he did the job nicely. Ray had the delightful habit of prying open every game with a hot shot, ranging all the way to a home run. He was always on the bases, and dented the rubber twenty times in the fifteen sessions.

LOUIS TRAUTWEIN, Pitch

When "Lou" saw that the first base was leased to Lee Shanley, he decided to become a twirler. He worked hard, and got his big chance in the first Ames game. One run and three hits in seven innings proved how good he was. Trautwein will undoubtedly prove an excellent pitcher in the 1922 campaign.

ALONZO FINN, Catch, Second Base

"Lonnie" wasn't much on speed, but he wielded a potent bat in the pinches, and was equally good behind the bat or at second base. In fact, he was a life saver, for when the incomparable Schewe was injured, it left a huge gap which has to be filled for eight games, and "Lonnie" was the boy who did it.

"Tommy" took care of about everything that came in the direction of left field, and is one of the prettiest fielders in the Valley. Three catches he made of long fouls in that memorable thirteen inning struggle at Mizzoo, were unbeatable.

ATHLETICS

George not only covered the right garden in the same elegant style as the year before, but turned out to be the "Babe Ruth" of the team, half his wallops being for extra bases. George could miss a ball farther or hit one harder than anyone on the team. His graduation means a problem for Coach Davis in finding a successor.

"Spaget", other half of the team of clowns of Linne-meyer & Magualo, held down the center garden to the satisfaction of all. He gathered in all balls which came his way, and hit excellently in the pinches. Magualo was the first choice of the coaches for All-Valley outfielder.

FRANK DEBOLT, Pitch

Frank found himself last season, and became a regular Varsity pitcher. His one-hit shut out victory over Ames and his 4 to 1 victory over the Tigers were gems of pitching efficiency. DeBolt was selected as All-Valley pitcher, and is destined to be the Piker's leading hurler for the coming season.

HENRY HURD, Outfield

A pinch hitter of note, who could be counted on to bring in the run. In the field, Henry grasped everything with neatness and dispatch, and when once on base, dashed madly around like an engine minus engineer.

"Traub" was a real catcher, an able successor to Conzelman, and was of the same type—brainy, a close student of batters, aggressive and a sweet hitter. His graduation leaves a position open, and the man who succeeds him will have his work cut out to do as well.

out. He had three clean blows and made three wonderful running catches in the left garden, two of them far beyond the foul line.

The Pikers got back on a winning stride on their home grounds and reduced the Ames Cyclones to a whisper to the tune of 7 to 3 and 9 to 3. "Lou" Trautwein, making his first start of the season, was sent to the mound in the first setto and retired after seven well pitched innings, leading 7 to 1. "Rog" Scurlock succeeded the elongated "Lou" and although cruelly treated, escaped with two runs. The fielding of shortstops Wyman, and Davis of Ames, was the outstanding feature on the defense, while for Washington the bats of Berger, Finn and Trautwein did damaging work. A third inning bombardment in which Pitcher Gruetzmacher was driven from the mound, after yielding a base on balls and four solid raps for four runs, enabled the Pikers to capture the second battle. Inasmuch as Ames gathered but three runs and six hits off Captain Lyon, these four runs were enough to win, but the Red and Green made it nine for good measure. The bludgeons of Hurd, Shanley, Wyman and Schewe were prominent in the massacre, while on the defense, the brilliant Schewe accepted ten chances with nary a slip.

The first game of the road trip was played on Drake's alleged ball grounds which consisted mostly of a dense forest. The Pikers proved the better hunters in the first game, and won 2 to 1, after a fierce thirteen inning pitchers' battle between Lyon and Goode. "Monty" pitched excellent ball, allowing only six

"Dick" was captain of the team, its leading point getter and the only man to break a record in the 1921 Missouri Valley Conference meet. Good for ten points in every dual meet in which he was entered and getting eight out of the Varsity's total of fifteen in the Valley meet, "Dick" closed his athletic career at Washington with a record discus throw of 133 feet 4 inches. It will be one of Coach Rider's hardest problems to fill Kremer's place.

"Jerry" used his long legs to advantage when he placed second in the high jump and thus boosted Washington's total. Always a hard worker, his labor was awarded with three points in Valley competition. It was his last year on the squad.

The mile relay team which placed fourth, consisted of O'Brien, Hafner, Crowder and Hoagland. With the exception of Hafner, the 1922 season will find the team intact and ready for work.

Hafner found the traveling a bit fast in the 440, but managed to finish fourth. He also ran anchor man in the mile relay. His absence leaves a big gap to fill.

Dean placed fourth in the low hurdles and tied for third in the running high jump. He has two more years of track and should come in for his share of points.

ATHLETICS

With a total of fifteen points and sixth place in the Missouri Valley Conference Meet, and winners in the Drake, Rolla and Grinnell dual meets, Washington closed its 1921 books on the most successful track season in its history. Not since 1914 when the Varsity squad gleaned thirteen points, has the Pikeaway's total reached a representative height in Valley competition. The Municipal outdoor meet was easily won with a team composed of Varsity men and members of the Freshmen squad.

The outdoor track season opened on April 19, when the Pikers scored a one-sided victory over Rolla School of Mines. As the score of 88 to 48 indicates, the Varsity had practically a monopoly on first place, and also took its share of seconds and thirds.

On May 7, the team journeyed to Des Moines and captured its second dual meet of the year by defeating Drake, 76 to 59. In this meet Kremer surpassed his own Missouri Valley record with a discus throw of 137 feet 3 1/2 inches.

The Grinnell runners were met at Francis Field on May 14, and again the Pikers brought home an 82 1/2 to 52 1/2 win. Washington men were outclassed in the track events, but led in the field events, Kremer, Thumser, and Leffler each capturing two firsts.

The teams of the Missouri Valley met in St. Louis on May 27 and 28, to contest for first honors in the Conference meet. Not only Conference schools, but institutions outside the Conference competed. Nebraska captured first place with a total of 37 points. Washington scored fifteen points and sixth place, which is the best showing a Pikeaway squad has ever made in a Missouri Valley meet.

The Municipal Outdoor Meet held June 4, at Francis Field terminated the track season. Washington scored 61 1/2 points with its nearest competitor, Ep-silon Eta Athletic Club, earning 49 1/2.

Washington may well look up to the team which so successfully carried its colors throughout the season. The prospects for the 1922 season are good, although the loss of Captain Kremer, Berger, Deeds, Drake, Wolf, Hafner, and Reichard will be keenly felt. Crowder, Hoagland, Leffler, T. O'Brien, Ralls and Thumser are letter men from last year, who with a year's experience, should collect many points in the coming season. Anderwert, Beir, Cantwell, Fletcher, Long and L. Williams from last year's Freshmen team appear to be Varsity material. An excellent schedule has been arranged, and Coach Rider can be depended upon to have his men in trim to give their best.

Tennis

THE 1921 Tennis Season was one of the most successful in the history of Washington University. The schedule included six dual intercollegiate meets and the annual Missouri Valley Conference Tournament. Washington finished the season undefeated, having a clean slate of seven victories.

On April 29, the Milliken University tennis team, champion of the Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Association, came to St. Louis for a dual meet. A total of six matches were played. The Pikers scored a one-sided victory by making a clean sweep of the four singles and two doubles matches.

The second meet of the year was with the strong Illinois University team on May 13 and 14 at Champaign. Illinois had, a few weeks previous, decisively beaten Northwestern and Purdue Universities and was therefore favored to defeat the Pikers. However, as a result of the two days' playing, Illinois was handed its first defeat of the year. Four singles and two doubles matches were contested each day. In all a total of twelve matches were played, of which Washington, by brilliant playing, annexed nine.

On May 20 and 21, the Oklahoma University net squad invaded St. Louis in quest of Piker scalps. Oklahoma had just made a triumphal tour through the Western Conference, defeating Northwestern, Indiana, Detroit, Chicago and Illinois, and as a result, the famous Parks brothers and Darrough were very optimistic. Four matches, three singles and one double, were played each day. Washington defeated the Sooners, by annexing five of the eight matches played.

ATHLETICS

As a result of this decisive victory, the hopes of Washington tennis fans were raised to the highest point, because Oklahoma had previously been considered by many tennis critics, as the strongest net team in the Valley.

A week later, on May 27 and 28, the Missouri Valley Conference Tennis Tournament was held in St. Louis. Although there were only five universities entered, these were of the highest calibre and a hard battle was anticipated by the Pikers before they could return victors.

In the singles, Captain Brown of Washington fought his way to the finals, where he was forced to accept defeat at the hands of Captain Ben Parks of Oklahoma. This gave Oklahoma first place in the singles. In the doubles event, the two Washington teams succeeded in eliminating all other opponents, thereby reaching the finals where Brown and Satterfield defeated Kamman and Barnes. Washington, by placing the greatest number of men in the finals, was awarded the championship.

On June 1, the Pikers engaged in a dual meet with St. Louis University. The result was never in doubt as our sister university was unable to win even a single set. Thus the collegiate championship of St. Louis was easily decided. This concluded a most successful spring season for Washington.

In the fall of 1921, two important dual meets were scheduled with Illinois and Oklahoma. On October 17 and 18, the Illinois team journeyed to St. Louis, seeking revenge for the severe beating administered it in the preceding spring. According to advance information, the Illini had greatly strengthened their playing and team-work, as the doubles team had been runners-up in the "Big Ten" Conference Tournament. Nevertheless, Illinois was beaten even more decisively than on the previous occasion, for they succeeded in winning only two out of the twelve matches played. This clearly demonstrated the superiority of Washington's tennis team over Illinois', and according to comparative scores, over nearly all the Western Conference teams.

The following week, the Pikeaway net team composed of Captain Brown, Kamman, and Barnes left for Norman, Oklahoma to engage in a two days' meet. The nineteen hour trip had a bad effect on the Pikers, and in the first day's play, the Sooners won two out of the three matches played. Wray Brown by remarkable playing and great powers of endurance was able, only after a strenuous match, to defeat Ben Parks of the Sooners. In the second day's play, Washington took three out of the four matches. This made it four out of seven and a win. Thus the Pikers, by handing the Sooners their first defeat of the season on their home grounds, left no doubt as to their holding of the Missouri Valley Championship.

Throughout the season the general all-around playing of Captain Brown stood out. Wray could be counted as a sure winner in all his matches. Kamman played a steady and aggressive game, and has two more seasons in which to compete. Barnes and Satterfield played good tennis, and each has one more season of competition left. With a championship team intact for the meets in the spring, the tennis prospects at Washington look bright. The schedule will probably be composed of games with some of the strongest universities in the country.

Cross Country

ASHINGTON entered upon its second year of participation in cross country events at a great handicap. Only one veteran answered Coach Summer's call for long-distance runners, and thus he had the difficult task of building up a team from inexperienced men, but by steady and faithful work a promising team rounded into form, and was ready to represent the Red and Green in this branch of sport.

On November 5, in a tri-angular meet with Grinnell and Missouri, the Pike-way distance men were forced to accept third place. The start was made previous to the Piker-Tiger football classic, and an exciting finish added to the spirit of the day. Point winners for Washington were Ralls, Querman and Capps.

A week later, in the Missouri Valley Cross Country Meet, held at Lincoln, Nebraska, the Pike-way entries found the course extremely difficult, and combined with an unusually fast pace which proved too much, were forced to accept last place. The Pikers were at a distinct disadvantage, due to inexperience, and with "Jimmy" Ralls, their only veteran, suffering from a weak ankle.

The prospects for next year are good. The team will return intact, and with a year's experience and training, should make a better showing. Coach Summer's untiring efforts are certain to bring results.

Swimming

OUR student body, as will all friends of the University, rejoices in the knowledge of the erection on the main campus of a swimming pool. This swimming pool is the generous gift of Mrs. Newton R. Wilson, widow of an early graduate of Washington, and daughter of William Glasgow Jr., one of its founders. The pool is housed in a building to the north of Francis Gymnasium with which it is connected. It is constructed of red granite and Bedford limestone, the same materials which are used in all permanent buildings on the campus. The pool itself is 75x36, the depth of the water ranging from 3½ feet at the shallow end to 9 feet at the deep end. The pool building is provided with the best and most modern equipment obtainable. The building provides seating capacity for nearly 1000 persons, thus furnishing ample space for the spectators who will attend swimming meets and exhibitions. No gifts could have come to the University which would meet with greater enthusiasm on the part of the student body and the alumni.

On Thursday night, March 16, the pool was formally presented to the University by Mr. William G. B. Carson of the English department, nephew of the donor, Mrs. Wilson. It was indeed a great occasion. Every Washingtonian can now number among its buildings and equipment, the best and most complete college swimming pool in the country. Every man and women of Washington, the alumni and the University's many friends are deeply grateful to Mrs. Wilson.

Washington now enters the field of aquatic sports and prospects for a winning team are good. Ollie Horn is destined to be the Red and Green's main point winner in this sport. He is a swimmer of exceptional ability and has no equal in the Valley. Dugdale, Helbing, Kay, Mare, Mudd and Ulrich are the most promising men in the dashes, Cann in the plunge for distance, and Ulrich in fancy diving. Artie Eilers will have charge of the Varsity swimmers.

Inter-Scholastic Track

The First Annual Mississippi Valley Track and Field Meet for high school athletes, was held May 21, at Francis Field. This meet was the largest event of its kind ever attempted by a Missouri Valley School, and it proved to be such a success that its continuation in the future as an annual affair, is certain.

About three hundred athletes were entered in the numerous events, representing some twenty odd high schools. For the sake of fairness, the competing schools were divided into two classes according to their respective enrollments. All schools with a roster of three hundred and fifty students, or under, constituted Class B, while all over this number were placed in Class A, with the exception of the privilege to those schools falling under the rules of Class B to enter Class A, if so desired.

The awards and prizes were of the best. The winner in Class A was given a cup, along with the Washington University Engineer's cup which becomes the permanent property of the first school that wins it three times. For the first four places in each event there were gold, silver and bronze medals. A cup went to the winning relay team, along with silver and bronze medals to the members of the winning team and runner-up respectively. Soldan High School won Class A, with a score of  $37\frac{1}{2}$  points, and Cleveland captured second place with  $21\frac{1}{3}$  points.

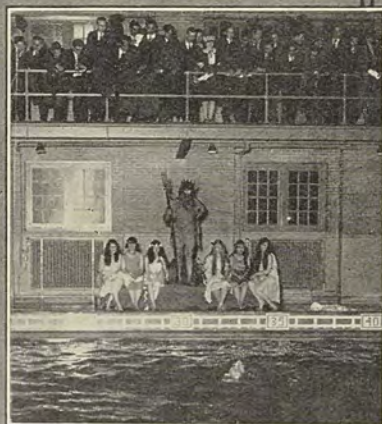

The winner of Class B was awarded a cup, while for the first four places in each event there were silver and bronze medals and ribbons. There was also a cup for winning relay team, and ribbons for each member of the team. The University City team romped home in first place with  $55\frac{1}{2}$  points, and Kirkwood following with  $32\frac{1}{2}$  points, took second place.

The idea of a meet of this nature originated with Coach Rider, and by his instigation and efforts the event was made possible. The results were gratifying to the Coach, and he anticipates even better support from the student body and public at all future affairs of this nature.

The meet this year takes place on May 20, at Francis Field and Washington University extends her heartiest welcome to the prep school athletes, and wishes them all success in the Second Annual Mississippi Valley Track and Field Meet.

Coaches

Miss Williams

Great credit is due Miss Kate Williams and Miss Childs for what they have accomplished in this, their first year in the Department of Physical Education for Women. Through their efforts and understanding, not only has the standard of the course been raised, but the bond of friendship between instructor and pupil has been strengthened.

Under their direction there have been many innovations in the course, among which are the introduction of soccer for women, and the substitution of character and folk dancing for the aesthetic training of former years. And, too, gymnasium classes consisting of apparatus work and calisthenics have been substituted by active participation in baseball, swimming, basketball, or some other sport during the class period.

May Day was different than ever before, as the program consisted of a play, adapted from "The Foresters," by Tennyson. The co-ed rollicked through Morris and Lincoln Green Dances instead of attempting to transmit the freedom of their spirits into the portrayal of nymphs and Baccantes.

Miss Williams and Miss Childs are graduates of the Chicago Normal School of Physical Education from which the former receives her degree in 1914, the latter in 1920.

"Men go through the world, each musing on a great fable, dramatically pictured and rehearsed before him. If you speak to the man he turns his eyes from his own scene and slower and slower or faster endeavors to comprehend what you say. When you have done speaking he returns to his private music.

The Eliot for seven years has been the literary publication of Washington University. During the period of its existence, there has been a marked development in every phase of University life, with which Eliot,—in spite of many difficulties,—has more than managed to keep pace. But this year is the first in its history when its future could be termed assured; the credit for which is due to the present business staff.

However, change has been operative not only as regards the regular appearance of the magazine, but likewise in its entire character. No longer do fiction and poetry alone hold sway within its covers—which in themselves have added to its artistry. In addition, material of both a lighter and more serious nature than has been wont to appear in this medium has found a place, and a vigorous editorial policy has been substituted for the more or less vagrant and dallying one of the past. In short, Eliot is not only looking up, but it is branching out in a more mature fashion than heretofore.

“What are you doing out at Washington?”

This question is asked many times a day of persons who are at present connected with the University. The same question is in the minds of Washington alumni far and near who have long since begun to realize that university associations are among the most prized assets of life. Many men who have temporarily forgotten their college have begun to look up this feature of their geneology, because a person without a university is something like the man without a worthy grandfather. This feeling is in the minds of hundreds of men and women who have suddenly discovered that a college ancestry means something. Hence the desire of ex-Washingtonians to renew their acquaintance with their Alma Mater. The NEWS is published to satisfy that desire. Its object is to bring the Alumni into closer connection with all Washington University activities, and to keep them informed of all University affairs.

THE 1923 HATCHET

DRAMATICS

On November 30th and December 1st, Thyrsus opened its 1921-22 dramatic season with three well-selected one-act plays: "The Florist's Shop", by Hawkrige, "Trifles" by Glaspell, and "The Proposal", by Czechov.

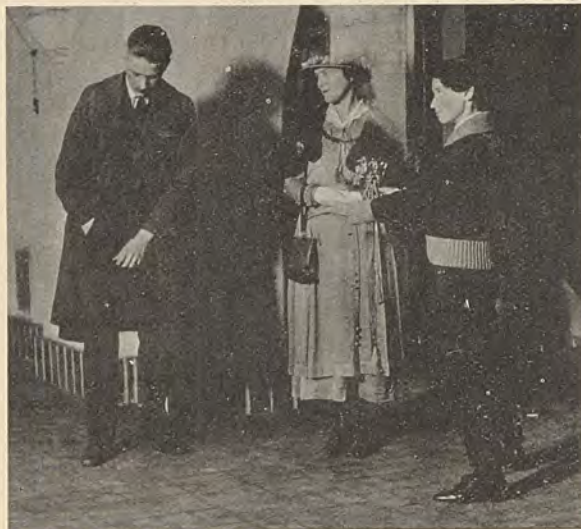

In spite of the brief opportunities offered for character exposition and development, the Thyrsus castes did surprisingly well. The program was well balanced and was favorably received by capacity houses at each performance.

The Hawkrige play, a mild little trifle, was raised above its merits by the valiant efforts of Ed. Scherman and Margaret Steele. Miss Steele scored a personal triumph as the sympathetic old-maid. Here is a potential Gertrude Walther. Hale Nelson showed promise in a well-fitting role. Leah Dick was a perfect boy, while Clara Muckerman performed well as Maude, a gum chewing, sentimental clerk, who tried to fix up the love affairs of all her customers.

The importance of "Trifles" was skillfully expounded by Edith Lange and Edmonia Richmond. Their task was no easy one, and their interpretation of the well-known but difficult play was more than successful. The play, a satire on men and their blustering methods, is a somber, subtle thing calling for some good acting and some fine distinctions. Fred Pavey, Dudley Thomas, and Ruperto Coates made intelligent use of their slight opportunities.

"The Proposal" Czechov's sketch was a frivolous bit of Russian comedy, and proved to be the most amusing of the trio. Robert Kissack's performance as the suitor left little to be desired and showed a marked improvement over his appearance in "Pomander Walk". Katherine Foster was a charmingly argumentative Natalya, while Clark Fiske was the composed amusing, but quite un-Russian, father. The broad burlesque of "The Proposal" provoked much laughter, and proved an excellent envoi.

DEPARTING from their usual choice of heavy drama for the Annual, Thyrsus chose Lewis M. Parker's "Pomander Walk", an English Comedy in three acts which was a successful production about a decade ago. The action is supposed to take place in a rural country lane in England during the year 1805, with quaint and humorous village characters and their many involved intrigues, trials and love affairs, the comic element being more of caricature than plot or manners. The play was most wisely chosen as it displayed the ability of the actors, and the simple setting required no change of scenery. The performance was given at the Odeon on Tuesday evening, May 10, 1921, under the direction of Mr. Joseph Solari.

One of the outstanding features of the entertainment was the Washington University Orchestra, led by John Mohrstadt. The musical numbers included an overture by Lustspiel, and selections from 'Irene' and 'Night Boat.'

DRAMATICS

Miss Gertrude Walthers was, without a doubt, the star of the evening. She took the part of Mlle. Marjolaine Lachesnais and captivated the audience with her poise and sweet girlish ways, in the difficult role of a perplexed girl lover.

Robert Kissack, acting opposite to Miss Walthers, in the role of Lieut. The Hon. John Sayle, R. N., did the part to perfection, and earned a great deal of praise for his excellent interpretation—probably.

Miss Florence Walters, as Madam Lachesnais, the mother of Marjolaine, and Montgomery Anderson, as John Sayle, 10th Baron Otford, father of Jack, were exceptional in their parts. Miss Walters, although she had little opportunity to display her ability, was sweetly charming in everything she did, and gave an excellent exhibition of voice control. Montgomery Anderson with his rare carrying quality of voice and fine enunciation, succeeded very well in getting his lines across to the audience - probably more so than any one of the other actors.

The character of Mrs. Pamela Poskett was well taken care of by Miss Myra Woodson, and her designs upon Sir Peter Antrobus, a part acted by Tom Dawson, afforded much amusement.

Dawson was excellent in the characterization of the petulant, yet romantic, Sir Peter. His easy stage presence especially merited praise.

Emerson Conzelman as The Rev. Jacob Sternroyd, D. D., F. S. A., furnished more amusement. His was a difficult part, but a type with which he has had experience in previous plays. He had the audience in laughter time and again.

The three silent characters were taken by Dudley Thomas, the Eyesore; Fred Pavey, the Lamplighter; and Clarence Barksdale, the Muffin-Man. None of the silent, yet expressive, pantomime of the Eyesore was missed by the audience, and Dudley Thomas distinguished himself in this interpretation.

Terry Boyd was very good in his part as Mr. Basil Pringle, the conscientious fiddler who was continually bestowing his affections on Barbara, played by Gayle Anderson.

Kenneth McMath accredited himself well, as usual, in the role of Jerome Brooke-Hoskyn, Esq., and was the cause of much mirth in the dual character of the ex-butler and man-at-leisure.

Miss Gayle Anderson and Miss Aimee Morgan characterized the two designing maidens, the Misses Barbara and Ruth Pennymint; while the Hon. Caroline Thring, a nosey individual, was played by Miss Eleanor Becker. Miss Dorothy Badger acted the part of Jane.

David Millar, as Jim, the butler; and Dorothea Burbach, as Nanette, the maid, added one more love affair to the story.

Nearly the whole cast was paired off before the final curtain. The effect of the different couples, scattered about the stage after all misunderstandings had been cleared away, as well as an abundance of roses, gave the impression of a peaceful summer evening, and made a very delightful ending to the performance.

"Her Husband's Wife"

"Her Husband's Wife", a scintillating comedy in three acts was produced by Thyrsus Dramatic Club on March 15th and 16th, at Mary Institute.

The story of the play centers about young Mrs. Randolph, a hypochondriac, who, believing that she is soon to die, and wishing her husband to be provided for, selects Emily Ladew, a dowdy friend, to be his second wife. Much comedy is provoked when Miss Ladew makes herself very attractive and sets out to "vamp" Mrs. Randolph's husband and brother. Mrs. Randolph becomes jealous, and being unable to break the "engagement" which she herself has arranged between her husband and Miss Ladew, retires to her room in a storm of tears, and is only pacified by the news of Miss Ladew's engagement to her brother.

Gayle Anderson, as Mrs. Randolph, played her part to perfection, and made the audience sympathize with her, even in her most capricious moments. She was convincing all through the play; first as the imaginary invalid, then as the jealous wife, and finally forgetting her own ailments in her anxiety for her husband who has been driven to drink by her exasperating nervousness. Marion Hixon, as Emily Ladew was splendid. Flirting with Stuart Randolph in order to gain his brother-in-law's love, and alternately exasperating Irene Randolph and her brother, she caused much amusement to the audience who could see through her designs.

Allen McMath played the part of Stuart Randolph very capably, and was only limited by the shortness of the scenes in which he appeared. Richard Belden, the brother, played by Clifford Dunn, was a typical college boy, mystified by the entire proceeding, and sure of nothing but his love for Emily Ladew.

John Becker, as Uncle John, was the character with the most possibilities. His breezy manner of leaving embarrassing questions unanswered, and his evident amusement at his niece's plans were well portrayed. Lola Fuchs, as Nora, the Irish maid, was pleasing with her brogue and her comments on the other characters.

Peg O' My Heart

"Peg o' My Heart", a sparkling three-act comedy, was given by the Shell and Anchor Society at the Pershing Theatre on the evenings of February second and third, for the benefit of ex-service men in the St. Louis Hospitals.

All the parts were well taken, and suited to the actors who portrayed them. The story of the play deals with Peg's relations with her snobbish aunt, Mrs. Chichester, and her cousins, Ethel and Alaric, as well as her romance with Jerry. Entering Mrs. Chichester's home, by the requirements of her uncle's will, she lives there several months, shocking and even scandalizing her dignified aunt. Returning, one night, from a dance to which she was forbidden to go, Peg meets Ethel coming down the stairs ready to elope. Peg persuades her to return, but as they go up the steps she accidentally knocks down a vase which falls with a crash. To save Ethel from her mother's wrath, Peg pretends to be the eloper. But when Ethel confesses, Mrs. Chichester forgives Peg of her sins and she and Jerry "live happily ever after".

All the men in the cast were ex-service men and had had amateur theatrical experience. Donald Bolt was splendid as Jerry, the hero. R. E. Rinehart, as Alaric, furnished much of the comedy of the play. J. H. McKinley, in the part of Montgomery Hawkins, the solicitor, and J. E. Ridgeway as Jarvis, the butler, were convincing in their characterization. J. E. Wyatt as Christian Brent, was very effective.

The feminine roles, taken by friends of Shell and Anchor, were admirably fitted to the actresses who played them. Miss Mignon Rosenthal, who has been identified with many other plays given by Washington University students, showed much versatility as Peg, the charming little Irish heroine. She was excellent both in voice and manner, and was very convincing in her love scenes. Mae Green, as Ethel, the snobbish cousin, displayed the training she had received in college and professional dramatics. In voice, posture, and gesture, she played her difficult role admirably. Miss Myrtle Downing, a member of the St. Louis Players, and an actress of training and ability, took the part of Mrs. Chichester, the too-dignified aunt who is angered at Peg's mischief. Mary Monahan, as Bennett, the maid, did very clever work.

Scenery, advertising, finances and all other accompaniments of the play were ably handled by members of Shell and Anchor. A selected orchestra of twenty pieces played during the intermissions.

The Grim Jester

BIT of the Renaissance, with its ferocity and passion for beauty, was resurrected on May 30, 31, and June 1, of last year, in a pantomimic pageant, "The Grim Jester", presented by the students of the St. Louis School of Fine Arts, in the grounds known during the World's Fair as the Kensington Gardens.

"The Grim Jester" was inspired by Edgar Allen Poe's tale, "The Masque of the Red Death", and draws upon "Rigoletto", the operatic version of Hugo's "Le Roi S'amuse". The simplicity of Poe's tale was complicated by the introduction of the motives of love and revenge, and the locale changed from medieval Italy to the mythical "City of Guhrah, in the land of Faahr, over beyond the wicked desert of Oom". The entire action was without speech, except that "The Dreamer" gave a prologue and elucidated the progress of the action.

The facade of the School of Fine Arts was cleverly utilized as a backdrop; for the outdoor scenes its columns and masonry formed real and not painted walls. When those were concealed by scarlet draperies, one had a banquet salon or a throne room. A deep vista at the rear was provided by opening the doors into the entrance hall of the school.

Margaret Steele, as Norda, was a charming heroine, and displayed her exceptional ability, both as an actress and a dancer. Warren Hagee gave an excellent representation of the Prince, foppish, dissolute, utterly lacking in character and human sympathy, and living only for the pleasures of life. Harold Hupp, as Pilo, the unfortunate lover, danced gracefully, and acted well, excelling especially in the portrayal of emotion. One of the best characters was the Jester, played by Allen Mettleman. His acting was uniformly good, and the fiendish laugh of triumph which he uttered as he was stricken by the plague, will long be remembered by the audience. The dreamer, Emanuel Essman, who spoke the prologue, gave the keynote to the whole play in his passionate and somewhat declamatory prayer. All the characters, including the peasants and the beggars, were extremely picturesque in their bright colored costumes, and the dancers executed many spectacular steps in a manner which gave evidence of the careful training they had received.

The first scene opens in a market place, with costumes of rich design contrasting with the ivory glitter of the torsos and limbs of vendors. The Jester, his bells tinkling, is discovered stealthily attempting to flee the city. He is caught by the guards and flogged. Prince Zuurh, ruler of the city, opulently dissolute, elegantly cruel, watches the punishment with his pallid smile. A youth, Pilo, seeks to rescue the Jester and is soundly thrashed for his pains. A strange maiden, Norda, who has ridden into the city on a donkey, pities Pilo, bathes his wounds, and is beloved by both Pilo and the Prince.

When the curtains open again a runner, his chest heaving and his white limbs reeling, staggers through the gate and collapses. Soon another arrives, and another, and yet another. Four exhausted forms lie motionless on the stage. They bring news of the dreaded Red Death which is ravaging the lands of Prince Zuurh. The Prince proclaims that he will retire to his central castle and seal its gates against the pestilence.

May Day

HE Annual May Day Celebration, given by W. S. G. A. in the courtyard of McMillan Hall on the afternoon and evening of May seventeenth, 1921, was again a success. The English courtyard was transformed into a Grecian garden, luxuriant with shrubs and trees, guarding a small temple. Before the festivities began, the ivy was planted against the wall of McMillan Hall by representatives of the senior class. Catherine Cushing, the vice president of the class presented her cap and gown to Elizabeth Bradshaw, the vice-president of the Junior Class, in token of the honor and dignity attached to those who have reached the threshold of their college commencement.

DRAMATICS

Elizabeth Hartmann, clad in Grecian robes, was impressive in the Prologue, which told the audience what was to follow. The Festival was given in honor of the god DIONYSIUS, the son of Jupiter and Semele. Unknown to anyone, Dionysius himself came to the garden in the guise of a mortal. There he met Melissa, an Arcadian shepherdess, with whom he fell madly in love. He lanced with her and followed her about continually, never allowing her to be lost from his sight. Margaret Steele as Melissa and Margaret Cheney as Dionysius did some very nice work in the several dances they had together. Soon the entertainers came in, groups of dancers who performed for the citizens on this day of gayety and pleasure. The vari-colored costumes of the dancers made an artistic effect which was not an inconsiderable part of the charm of the whole. While the various groups were dancing, Dionysius and Melissa wandered among the crowd, talking to them and making them welcome to the festival of their god. The dancing continued, growing more and more spirited, and rising to a climax. Suddenly, in the midst of the mad frenzy, Dionysius, forgetting his true nature and his present disguise, ran to the temple and held aloft his thyrsus. He was then revealed in all his godly splendor, and the assembled onlookers realized that the god himself, for whom the celebration had been planned, had been among them, unrecognized because of his mortal disguise.

Melissa, when she found that he was not a mortal like herself, as she had thought, but really a god, was completely overcome by the revelation and fell dead at his feet. So through his forgetfulness, he had lost his love who was so dear to him, and for him the festival had been a failure.

The play was written by Frances Broerman, to whom a great deal of credit is due. The dancers were ably directed by Miss Adeline Rotty of the Physical Education Department. All of the principal parts were played admirably. Margaret Steele as Melissa made a very charming shepherdess; we did not wonder that even a god should fall in love with her. Margaret Cheney as Dionysius was equally good; we like him as a god or as a mortal. There were also some particularly fine group dances. The slaves were exceptionally good, and were composed of the following girls: Martha Barnidge, Marjorie Bump, Dorothea Burbach, Ethyl Evans, Katherine Finnegan, Mary Jewett, Estelle Leiber, Estelle Neiman, Katherine Pfeiffer, Marion Whitbread and Irma Williams.

We could not, in this short space, enumerate all the dancers who performed so creditably at this fete. Those who saw it will not soon forget how enjoyable it all was, and those who missed it may well regret this fact.

20TH ANNIVERSARY

Keod Vodvil

N Dec. 17th, 1921, Keod presented its annual "Vodvil". At both the afternoon and evening performances the Auditorium at Mary Institute was comfortably filled and the Vodvil enjoyed unusual success.

Asklepios repeated by request its amusing Minstrel Show and Jazzy Band which were so popular the year before. Much of its success was due to the band master, Rose Volland, who waved her baton in true orchestra style. The Ukelele Club gave a pleasing recital of popular song accompanied by the music of the "uke", Thyrsus was represented by Miss Bernice O'Brien who gave two very successful recitations in southern negro dialect.

The act which was the most original and amusing, and which received the greatest applause from the audience was "A Day in King Arthur's Court", given by the girls of McMillan Hall. King Arthur, Queen Guenivere, Launcelot, Elaine, and many others were there and underwent various adventures, until the scene closed with Elaine floating down the river, with an artificial lily clasped in her hand. Finally the whole court collapsed at the news contained in a special edition of "Stupid Life" that the Washington Pharmacy had reduced its prices. The success of the scene was due to the cleverness with which it was written, the splendid spirit of the actors, and the fact that it referred to University affairs.

The seven women's fraternities were well represented. First came Pi Phi's stunt in which the artists were "records" who emerged one by one from a large Victrola. Popular songs were introduced and the whole was well named a "Record Breaker".

Theta's sketch was in the form of a fantasy called "Castles In Spain". Spanish costumes gave a proper dash to the act while original wording and catchy airs made the music delightful.

Delta Gamma's production was classical in tone. In it various Shakesperian quotations were filled into clever repartee. Modern dancing was taught to Shakespear's characters under the title "A Midsummer Dance Dream".

"Bobs" by Gamma Phi Beta was a clever depiction of the many types of girls who look well in bobbed hair, showing that any girl may join the ranks. The singing was especially good.

Alpha Chi Omega presented "The Affairs of Manato", a conception of the well known "Batchelor Dream". We are told that some of the masculine protion of the audience took notes.

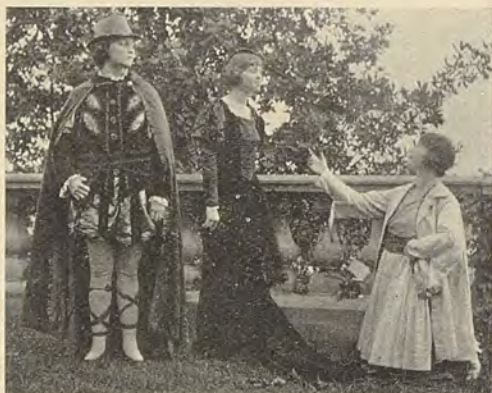

Chi Sigma Phi presented "The Three Mushy Dears" which was centered on various popular songs and a piano solo.

A fitting end to such a successful program was Kappa's "Candy Revue". In a most clever way all our old favorites, from the lolly pop on up, were introduced. At the close of the act, candy kisses were tossed to those lucky enough to be sitting in the front rows.

The whole affair went off smoothly because of the improved stage facilities and the increased size of the stage. The Vodvil was considered the most successful and certainly the most unique that has ever been given under the direction of Keod.

The contest was won by Milton Eisenhower, speaking for Kansas Agricultural College on "The Practitioner of Peace". ## The Junior Prom

The 1922 Junior Prom was a veritable fairy land of dazzling brilliance which reached its height when Miss Margaret Hermann was crowned as the 1923 Hatchet Queen to reign as Queen of Love and Beauty for the following year. An unusual feature of the coronation was the court which attended the Queen. The other candidates—Miss Berenice Koenig, Miss Katherine Foster, Miss Lucille Goessling and Miss Eleanor Becker—preceded the Queen in the march to the throne, which directly followed the grand promenade. The gowns worn by the Maids and their Queen showed up to great advantage as they marched between the throngs of spectators in the rays of a spot-light which played upon them. Miss Koenig's gown was of crimson velvet and silver brocade made on draped lines while Miss Foster, in direct contrast, wore a demure frock of blue taffeta trimmed with lace and myriads of tiny flowers. Miss Goessling wore a creation of shimmering blue sequins while Miss Becker's gown was of sea-foam green brocade chiffon incrustated with crystal beads. The gown worn by Miss Hermann was white, the true color of royalty, and was a mass of iridescent beads which glistened dazzlingly in the glare of the spot-light.

No one would have recognized the scene of this revel as Francis Gymnasium, so altered it seemed. The entire Gym. was draped and canopied in pink and green hangings and all sorts of colored lights hung from the ceiling. A ball of million mirrors was suspended from the ceiling in the middle of the room and from time to time the lights were turned low in order to allow the spectators to admire the play of lights as the ball revolved.

A feature of the decorating was the small alcoves set back in the draperies at the ends and on the sides of the gym. Here one might stop to watch the gay scene as the brilliantly gowned dancers whirled by—or in another corner one might stop to talk with the chaperones to say nothing of the third corner where refreshments were served thruout the evening.

The chaperones were—Mr. and Mrs. Crawford, Dr. and Mrs. Hermann, Mr. and Mrs. Goessling, Dr. and Mrs. Jones, Mr. Shipton, Mr. and Mrs. Hughes, Miss Fenton, Dr. and Mrs. Lippincott, and Mr. and Mrs. Desloge.

We dedicate this, the Nineteen by common consent, the most

HERE, gentle reader, we find Ralphie Fuchs, in a moment of relaxation from the burden of his studies, and the toil and turmoil connected with his life's task—reforming Washington. He is reposing peacefully in his little white tubbie, humming merrily to himself, and perusing the latest issue of —ah, maybe some of you have seen it on the news stands. At any rate Ralphie seems to be enjoying the contents immensely, for it was all that the photographer could do to persuade him to look away from the magazine's mystic pages long enough for him to obtain a good likeness. Note the luxurious clouds of steam, arising from the water. We daresay this picture was not taken at the dormitories. Also note the scrub brush, hanging peacefully on the south wall.

A Testimonial

To whom it may concern:

"I wish to say a word about 'Herpicide'. Not, of course, to imply that I have at any time been in actual need of a curative hair dressing but that I have found 'Herpicide' to be an excellent dressing; giving the hair that soft, fluffy, well groomed appearance so becoming to the professional man. When nature has given one beauty one should do all in one's power to preserve its natural attractiveness.

"I am engaged in the teaching profession and have a large number of girls in my class. It is of course very natural that they should notice and admire any natural beauty that their instructor may possess and because of their admiration increase their every effort to show to advantage in his course. Nature has very kindly bestowed upon me strikingly beautiful and luxuriant hair and each day I have cause to be thankful for the natural advantage it gives me in holding the admiring attention of the class.

"I find, that with one application of 'Herpicide' and careful brushing and fluffing before each class, my hair bushes very nicely; which of course gives me a very distinctive air. I cannot recommend 'Herpicide' too highly and should feel quite lost without it."

HERE'S A TALENTED CHAPTER

TEN Chapters of Kappa Sigma average .5 per cent or more of courses passed, for the year 1920-21. Colorado Mines led with .6 per cent; then came Arkansas, Lake Forest, Alabama Tech, Pennsylvania, Syracuse, Dickinson, North Carolina, Bucknell, Washington and Jefferson. Twenty-five Chapters made a record of .6 to .5 per cent; twenty-seven, .5 to .4; while eighteen of the Chapters reporting came below .5 per cent. The laggards, falling below .4, were three in number, and the low mark was .3. The average for the entire fraternity was .42 per cent.

Kappa Alpha JEWELRY

A postal card will bring it to you.

BΘ—Washington University, Saint Louis, Missouri, C. M. Barksdale, C. S.

With 500 active men and 150 pledges, Beta Theta Chapter, Washington University has a very successful semester.

On Saturday, October 29th, we dispensed with caution and pride and introduced the pledges to the fair sex and despite our older men we are sure they made quite a hit.

The Birth of an Order

STRICKEN Dixie stretched her mangled hands toward the leaden sky, while Devastation strode across her breast and seared upon her brain the memory of brothers, by their brethren slain, and there mid an earthquake's ruin, was born that Great Misunderstanding, the Kappa Alpha Order. We talked Frightened blacks shunned the Kappa Alpha Order. We started the Ku Klux Klan K. A. with no success and then, we started the Ku Klux Klan.

We should not be too eager to "toot" our own horn. We recently tried to find out if we were well bred by taking 22 tests which we found in a magazine. We failed. Omicron Chapter of the Kappa Alpha Order now accommodates nearly four thousand students, and the enrollment would be much larger were the University one of the largest. This policy has proven advantageous.

WE nominate for the Hall of Fame Professor Quintana, because, despite the fact that college professors must spend twelve hours a day studying to keep up with their classes, he has perfected a delightful game of mental golf which promises to solve for the Park Commissioners; the Tired Business Men and Downtrodden College Professors the perplexing problem of overcrowded golf links.

WE have taken upon ourselves the pleasant task of refuting a malicious rumor concerning Professor Conant that has been whispered about the Quad. Certain persons have said that they did not believe that Professor Conant had at any time visited the Philippines Islands or that he had ever seen a photograph of Harvard College. Because these persons persist in circulating this falsehood we feel called upon to disprove it by making public such proof as has come into our possession. We submit the tintype reproduced on the left hand side of the page and the following extract from Rex vs Imaginboozer, 15 Phil. Stat., 263, (the famous "Must We Swallow This" case) in which Judge Conant laid down the rule that made him famous throughout the Philippine Islands: "What have we here—a fruit pie? It is not fruit pie according to the general rule in Bawstun. Again then—What is this? Um—I find upon tasting from one of the bottles that we have Gordon Gin in the court. But this is not the contract that I made. The defendant is not a bottlegger—this is genuine gin and he shall not suffer. But—MUST WE SWALLOW THIS? I hold that we must."

A REMINISCENCE OF KENTUCKY ALPHA

BY W. L. HUGGINS, JR., Washburn '20

I want to tell a little story that I think should be written in indelible ink in the history of old  $\Phi \Delta \Theta$ .

You know, it's a funny thing the way I came to be a Phi Delt. It happened in 1880.

There were about twenty of us in the bunch. The Phi Delt chapter had dwindled down to one man. His name was Willis and one day he called me to one side and said "I want to have a talk with you, John, as soon as I can."

His proposition was this:

He was graduating, and didn't want to see the Phi Delt chapter die. He asked me to bring the whole twenty over to his room, and let him initiate all of us. We talked it over for a couple of days, then went over to Willis' room and he initiated us. That's the way  $\Phi \Delta \Theta$  happened to be alive now.

MISSOURI GAMMA, WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

St. Louis, January 40:—Missouri Gamma is recuperating from the strenuous social life of the Christmas holidays. Very few of the brothers have been seen since New Years, and one of our pledges is reported to be on some freight train heading south. We hope to have a roll call in the near future and possibly the absent brothers will then be on hand. If not we must blame it on prohibition.

Our province convention representative, Ven. Johnson is home from Europe where he assisted the United States government as a legal adviser preparing amendments to the League of Nations.

We hope to be rid of Bob Denny, alias "Banjo Bob."

Sigma Nu is in bad need of pledges

Brother Settles, recently observing the writer's fraternity pin, said: "Darned if I am ever going to wear another Sigma Nu pin." Upon being asked why, he replied: "My wife won't let me; already I've bought three, and she uses them for a shirt-waist set and she's made up her mind to get enough for a necklace."

OUR VISITORS

Several times in the scholastic year, Thyrsus, the college dramatic club, holds tryouts. Here we see Sol Kohn, manager, director, scenario-writer, curtain raiser, electrician, publicity man, and last and not least, president of the organization, looking over a few snappy try-outs for the chorus of a snappier musical comedy that Thyrsus is contemplating producing. Note the undecided expression of Sol, who is unable to make up his mind as to which one is superior in his estimation. Just outside the wings, and not in the scope of the camera, Mr. Robert Kissack, the latest, is standing. No doubt he could offer some helpful advice, but Sol had just assured him that no assistance is needed.

"In the Spring, a young man's fancy—etc." This charming group of K. A.'s, and the equally attractive group of—ah, er—(the Pi Phi's seem to have the majority,) damsels, say, make quite a striking picture par le clair de la lune. This photograph was procured at great expense from one of the leading art companies of the city. Note the dashing cabillero pose that Charlie Reith has assumed, also the far-away look in Meriwether's eyes. He is pondering over the sale of a MemIndex outfit, and it seems that his thoughts are miles away. Abbott, too, is in a happy mood, over the $7.86 that he has knocked down from the last sale of the DIRGE. As for the halos, we might add that Clarence Barksdale (the little fellow vainly endeavoring to get his face in the picture) has since lost his, due to an excessive amount of profanity indulged in lately, when he was twenty minutes late for choir practice.

Professor Lippincott meets the most popular Professor on the Campus.

I N my work as a journalist I have met and interviewed dozens of famous men. From that experience I have found one very interesting fact: During the interview these men would invariably betray a childlike fascination for toys. I found this to be particularly true during a recent interview with Dean J. James.

At least a hundred persons, in talking to me about Dean James, have said something like this: "Why don't you get an interview with Dean James and try to find out what he does to retain his youthful appearance and continual pleasant and obliging attitude toward the student body." I found Dean James very busy at his desk and would have tiptoed out of the office to come on a day when he was not so busy, but he caught sight of my retreating figure and hailed me in this fashion, "Good morning, sir, did you wish to see me?" When I revealed to him the object of my visit he seemed very flattered and after offering me a "Chesterfield" from a well filled box, we settled down for a long and pleasant talk.

In the course of our conversation I asked him to tell me the secret of his success. A broad smile covered his somewhat youthful countenance and opening a drawer in his desk, drew out an immense jumping jack.

"If a man expects to succeed in any chosen vocation, he must not forget to play. I attribute my present success to the single fact that I spend at least four hours a day playing with my jumping jack."

A Gateway to Progress

There it stands—a simple forty-foot gateway but unlike any other in the entire world. Through it have come many of the engineering ideas that have made this an electrical America.

The story of electrical development begins in the Research Laboratories. Here the ruling spirit is one of knowledge—truth—rather than immediate practical results. In this manner are established new theories—tools for future use—which sooner or later find ready application.

The great industries that cluster around Niagara Falls, the electrically driven battleships, the trolley cars and electrified railways that carry millions, the lamps that glow in homes and streets, the household conveniences that have relieved women of drudgery, the labor-saving electrical tools of factories, all owe their existence, partly at least, to the co-ordinated efforts of the thousands who daily stream through this gateway.

Basketball

In order to provide competition for the Mississippi Valley high schools, and to give the "prep" athletes an opportunity to view Washington, a high school basketball tournament was staged March 15, 16 and 17, at Francis Gym. Twenty schools from Illinois and Missouri answered Coach Rider's invitation to participate in the tournament, and they were treated to a real demonstration of Piker hospitality.

For three days, basketball was "King of the Campus," and the student body as well as many visitors, packed the Gymnasium to watch the contests. A game was played every hour, and not a hitch or dispute occurred which might slow up the play.

The teams representing Webster Groves and Centralia reached the finals, and in the play off, Webster was victorious, after a hard fought contest, 21-20. Due credit must be given to Centralia as the team played consistently from the beginning of the tournament, and entered the finals with the disadvantage of being less fresh than their opponents. The game was exciting throughout, and the result was in doubt until the final whistle.

By winning the tournament, Webster holds the Leacock Trophy for one year, together with a cup emblematic of the Mississippi Valley High School Championship. The Leacock Trophy becomes the permanent property of the first school which wins it three times. Each member of the winning team was given individual gold basketball watch charms. The runners-up were given individual silver charms.

Plans for a similar tournament to be held early in March have been made, and indications show a greater number of entries.

Some of his retinue are to accompany him; others are to be left to their doom. Standing in the gates, he condemns them to their fates, with an insouciant gesture. He has only laughter for the wail of rejected mothers with children, old men, maidens, and youths. Norda is chosen; Pilo is rejected.

In the third scene the Prince and his companions are making merry within the castle, with wine-cup and dance, all oblivious of the scarlet horror which spreads its havoc under the very walls of the castle. In the following scene the vengeful Jester is seen opening a crevice in the gates, and through it Pilo and Red Death enter together.

The final scene is a masked ball, in which Norda, compelled to dance, whirls in fast and furious measures, until she falls exhausted. Then the buffoon escorts into the company a hideous figure clad all in gold with a dragon's muzzle for a mask. It is Pilo with the infection on his breath. He dances with one maiden after another, only to have each faint and expire in his arms; the Prince staggers down from his throne, but drops before he can strike. Pilo and Norda circle in a dance of death, until they fall together, and the Jester, at the moment when his triumphal laughter rings, is himself stricken. The curtain falls to rise again on a spectacle of prostrated forms, of the complete reign of the Red Death.

The adaption of Poe's story was made by Director E. H. Wuerpel, and Instructor Harland Frazer of the School of Fine Arts. The scenery was designed by Delmar Gray. The stage was built, the costumes executed, and the scenery constructed by the students of the school under the direction of the faculty.

The pageant, the proceeds of which went to support the Art School Scholarship fund was the most successful of the three that have been presented annually, and it aroused much favorable criticism in art circles in St. Louis.

the Black and Gold, nevertheless the Pikers possessed all the old fight that is always noticeable against Mizzo, and which makes all previous dope nil.

A recapitulation of statistics shows that Washington outshowed Missouri in rushing, gaining an aggregate of 129 yards as against 117 for the Tigers. Eleven first downs were made by each team, including those made via the overhead attack and through penalties. Until the final whistle blew, the outcome of the game was in doubt, and the 12,000 persons in the stands were kept in a constant fervor.

The first three quarters consisted mostly of straight football with both teams playing about even. "Tommy" Thompson attempted a drop kick in the second quarter, but it was blocked. "Dutch" Matthes was called upon repeatedly to carry the ball and each time delivered with a gain. Matthes fought and fought until he had to be carried from the field in a subconscious condition. In the fourth quarter, with only four minutes to play, Kershaw's capture of the pass which paved the way to his team's victory, was tainted in a degree of luck. Dashing madly toward the Pikers goal, the Bengal's right halfback suddenly cut in behind "Tommy" Thompson, the Washington safety man. Thompson leaped high into the air to block the flying pigskin, but succeeded in only barely touching the ball with the tips of his fingers, and the oval, was deflected directly into the arms of the man whose touchdown defeated the Red and Green the year before. Kershaw was nailed on Washington's 5-yard line, but on the next play, he twisted around Schnaus's end for a touchdown, which Lewis increased to 7 points with a subsequent goal. The Pikeway stands groaned at the sudden turn of events. With only two minutes to go, "Baldy" Thompson was rushed into the game, and his first pass was grounded. On the next play, Thompson hurled a beautiful pass to Thumser, who caught it on the Tiger's 35-yard line and advanced it to their 10-yard line, before being downed. Thompson's potent pass to Thumser marked the end of the game, as the headline's curfew could be heard before Thumser had time to arise. It was hard to take, for Washington deserved a better fate. Defeat was bitter, but far from disgraceful, and until the final whistle the Tigers were never sure of victory.

Turning Tulane's Green Tidal Wave into a quiet little stream in the first two quarters, and exhibiting a brilliant defense when the Southerners threatened to engulf them during the final half, Washington University triumphed 14 to 6, in the first intersectional contest witnessed on Francis Field in years.

Tulane University of New Orleans, considered one of the strongest teams in the South, came to St. Louis on November 12 in anticipation of an easy victory.

ceeded in winning by one point, but only after an extra five minute period.

Washington closed its 1922 season by losing three games on foreign courts, to Ames, Drake and Grinnell. "Baldy" Thumser was the star of the trip, his excellent floor work helping to keep the scores down.

So ended the season, and we will forget it. Let us look to next year for a winner. In regard to prospects, Captain Thompson will be the only regular to graduate. "Tommy" has been a faithful athlete for Washington and the school will miss him; O'Brien will also graduate, and he will be missed; Cristol, Johnson, Schnaus, Thumser, Cantwell, and DeBolt will be back to form a strong nucleus, and with such men as Hutton, Green, Lyle, and Wagner coming up from the Freshmen team, Washington should make them all sit up and take notice.

scattered hits and whiffing nine, an error in the seventh depriving him of a shutout. "Lou" Magualo's pinch single sent Linnemeyer with the first counter in the first canto, while twelve innings later Hugh Wyman's fourth hit sent Shanley over the rubber. Two beautiful running catches in short right by Finn, subbing for Schewe at second, prevented material damage. The second hunt resulted in a 2 to 1 defeat for the Green and Red, although Trautwein pitched elegant ball, and only sensational fielding prevented a score of Piker runs. Washington hit the ball on the nose in every inning, but the dense vegetation made any hit to right a single and allowed three gardeners to play left and center with the result that many sure hits were counted into out. It was a tough one to lose.

Having become accustomed to trees, the Bascomites were completely upset with the excellent clear playing field at Ames, and suffered a complete annihilation as the score of 11 to 1 will indicate. The hitters were part blind, the fielders tossed in half-dozen runs, and the flinging, while not altogether at fault, was far from tight in the pinches. DeBolt, who was knocked out on this occasion, obtained ample revenge the next day by making the Cyclones eat out of his hand the entire route. The final check showed seven runs and nine hits for Washington as against no runs and one hit for Ames. Besides, Frank whiffed ten opponents. The hickorys of Shanley, Wyman and Berger were responsible for most of the runs, while the fielding was errorless. It was a complete reversal of form by all concerned.

All hopes that Coach Bascom and his cohorts had of another baseball championship were entirely blotted out by the Missouri Tigers, when they set back the Red and Green with a 6 to 5 defeat before a record crowd. Although the Tigers copped the long end of the score, this does not indicate any supreme effort on their part, for the game was handed to them in the opening inning by some terrible defensive work. Frank DeBolt's excellent pitching, paired with his teammates sequential hitting, gave the Pikers a 4 to 1 victory over the Gold and Black in the concluding contest of the Valley season. The contest was replete with fielding features and brilliant mound work and was a fitting climax to a fine Conference season. Though Wyman's playing at short, Magualo's great heave from center to flag a runner at the plate, and "Lonnie" Finn's opportune single to score the winning markers all must come in for their share of honor, DeBolt's masterful mound maneuvers far eclipsed any other feature of the struggle.

GOOD LUCK MARGARINE

To their surprise the "Wave" was caught unawares, and treated to as fine a short passing game as they had ever beheld. Schnaus and Cantwell scored Washington's touchdowns via the overhead route, and were versatile in all departments of the game. The Pikeway line loomed up as a mountain to the Tulane offense, and in particular to the noted Legendre. Time after time Captain Kraehe, Long, Denny, and Kurrus broke through the Tulane defense and threw their backs for a loss. Tulane scored their single counter in the third quarter, and threatened to score in the fourth, but the Piker defense stiffened and held at the critical moment. It was the Piker's offensive power in the first half, which was converted into a defensive stronghold in the second half, which marked a great victory for the Red and Green.

This practically ended the season for Washington. True, ten days later, the St. Louis University team was met in an uninteresting game, which ended in a scoreless tie. On a muddy field, and with nothing to gain, the Pikers played half-heartedly, while St. Louis played only for that tie, which to them meant a victory.

Mention needs be given to the substitutes and second-string men, who gave their valuable services, and without which a team cannot hope to be successful. To Ed Singleton, who performed in a sufficient number of games to gain a letter. To George Thompson whose ability with the forward pass is known throughout the Valley, and who was always ready whenever the coach had need of him. To Nelson Hartman who successfully managed the team. Also to Artie Eilers, who handled the crowds at the games; to the cheerleaders who kept up the old fight all the way; and to Doctor Lund, Doctor Smith and Doctor Ewerhardt, who were always with the team, and gave invaluable service.

The two tilts with Rose Poly Tech resulted in a wholesale murder of the ball by both sides as the scores of 13 to 9 and 23 to 12 will testify. Bascom gave Scurlock a start in the first setto, but after a seven run barrage, thought better of it, and inserted Lyon to prevent further scoring. The lusty swats of the Bascom henchmen thereafter, turned in thirteen runs while "Monty" held the enemy safe. The second encounter produced even more hitting than the first, as thirty-five runs were scored. Trautwein was batted off with nine runs in three innings, and DeBolt who relieved him, was almost unhittable, but walked eight men. The Poly hurlers were terrible and the fielding worse.

The annual struggle with Concordia for the City title was a tight battle all the way, with the Red and Green once more waving triumphant, by the score of 3 to 0, thus retaining the laurels won last year. "Monty" Lyon on his last appearance as a Varsity pitcher gave the Seminarians three hits, fanned eight men and yielded only one base on balls, but his work was only a shade better than that of Meichner, twirling for Concordia. Errors accounted for two of the Piker runs, while George Berger's single sent in the other. Schewe and Burke scintillated on the defense, with "Shay" pulling the stellar play of the day, when in the fourth inning, with the bases filled, he nabbed a hard wallop for the final out.

The team loses Captain Lyon, Berger, Schewe and Burke by graduation, but has a splendid nucleus for a winning team in the remaining letter men and in new material coming up.

In Appreciation

The 1923 Hatchet Board wishes to take this opportunity of expressing its appreciation for the invaluable service and attention given toward the production of this book by:

OUR PRINTER AND BINDER

BLACKWELL WIELANDY BOOK & STATIONERY COMPANY,
St. Louis, Mo.

OUR ENGRAVER

JAHN AND OLLIER ENGRAVING COMPANY,
Chicago, Ill.

OUR PHOTOGRAPHER

MURILLO STUDIO,
St. Louis, Mo.

We especially wish to thank Murillo Studio, our photographer, for their kind cooperation in permitting us to use the photographs of the Seniors of the School of Medicine, as these pictures were not taken by them.

At this time we wish to depart from the usual conventionalities of business by expressing our thanks to our printers, Blackwell Wielandy Book & Stationery Company, for their splendid co-operation with us in the production of this book.

Particularly do we wish to thank Messrs. James Maccallum, Eugene Pettus, John Geerling and John Roth whose efforts on behalf of our printers made our work with them a joy and whose suggestions and personal interest in this publication greatly aided in solving our countless problems and difficulties.

It is in recognition of such whole-hearted co-operation in, and attention to, our work that we highly recommend Blackwell Wielandy Book & Stationery Company, as publishers of College Annuals.

L' Envoi

S we now present this, the Twentieth Anniversary Number of our year book, to the student body for its approval, it is with the hope that we have accomplished, at least partially, that which has been our aim.

A college year book should be a complete record of the school year, not in statistics or mere words, but so arranged as to make itself attractive as well as interesting, and to serve as a treasure over which many happy reminiscences may be spent. Furthermore, each year book should be a departure from the preceeding one, so that it may not lose in attractiveness because of similarity or repetition.

Such has been our aim. If we have accomplished it we are content, for then we feel we are repaid for a task that has not been an easy one. If there be any commendation let such be given to all the members of our staff for they have given equally of their energies and ideas, then let them be equally commended. But we do not ask nor do we expect the encomium of our fellow students, for after all we have only done that which has been our duty—to give to that task which is ours the best for that which we all love—Our Alma Mater.
